A Mises Institute Homecoming!

This September join David Stockman, Hunter Lewis, Lew Rockwell, Tom Woods, Jeff Deist, and many others for our Supporters Summit in Auburn. In addition to talks from some of our best speakers, supporters will be able to enjoy golf, SEC football tailgating, and the Auburn University Homecoming game!

It only makes sense that Mises Institute supporters will be heading to a college campus this year. After all, the Mises Institute and its scholars are some of the few voices for freedom and free markets that are left in higher education. In this age of resurgent Marxism and political correctness, it's becoming increasingly harder for students to find a home where they can learn sound economics and the scholarship of freedom.

For more than 35 years, the Mises Institute has been a home for faculty and students who need a place to learn, write, research, and teach as scholars of the Austrian school and as defenders of peace and markets. We hope you can join us this year at our Auburn campus to see where so many students and teachers have — thanks to you — received the support they need.
