Optional Final Exam

The Mündliche Prüfung is an optional, conference-end test for students on Mises University readings and plenary lectures. The exam consists of a preliminary written quiz on Thursday evening and orals on Saturday. The names of qualifying participants will be posted on the monitor in Ward Library (first floor) by Friday morning. On Saturday, a faculty jury will engage each of the qualifying examinees in a ten-minute question-and-answer session. Each of the three faculty panels will select two finalists to proceed to the next round of examinations.

The names of the final six will be posted on the monitor in Ward Library immediately following the examinations. These six finalists will then undergo a deeper examination by the entire faculty. At the 3:30 p.m. closing ceremony in Wolfe Hall, the third-highest scorer will receive the Kenneth Garschina prize of $750 and the second-highest scorer will receive the Kenneth Garschina Prize of $1,500. The student deemed the most learned of the conference by the faculty will receive the Douglas E. French Prize of $2,500.
